Calico Brown is an arts administrator, assistant to the director, teacher and artist who works at the Visual Arts and Design Academy in Santa Barbara. She is a visual artist, curator and designer in her own right.

Organize your files and projects, easily share documents and images, collaborate remotely, access your important info on the go, create a slide presentation or online portfolio, or keep a backup.

Google Docs (now Google Drive) is a useful tool for artists. Get started with the basics in this workshop and learn helpful tips & tricks so you can take care of your business quickly and get back to the studio.

You are welcome to bring your laptop or I Pad and lots of questions to the workshop.

Board Happenings

Breanne Lewis been with with AWoL since January 2011 volunteering at the 1st Annual Art Career Day Conference. She has interned with Art Without Limits ever since, except for a year break studying art history and architecture in Rome and Florence.

She recently became AWoL's newest board member, as the board Secretary, as well as staff member, assisting with marketing and administrative tasks. She also interns with the Museum of Art at UCSB and is curating an exhibit of Andy Warhol's work at UCSB's Art & Architecture Museum.

"I am thrilled to be working with such a wonderful organization fueled by Julie McLeod's creative energy! I have learned so much useful knowledge spanning from the inner-workings of a non-profit org to tips on how to collaborate with others to create community events. Working with AWoL has given me insight into executive decision making process and the creative flow process of running an organization."
